STRUNG-OUT DULCIMER BAND & HISTORY

The Strung-Out Dulcimer Band was the brain-child of Polly Lewis (1928-2010). An accomplished mountain dulcimer player herself, Polly simply loved the soft sounds that the dulcimer is known for. She envisioned sharing her passion with others both as a fellow musician and as a performer. As a natural outgrowth, in 2003 she recruited a couple of neighbors and a few others of like interest to form a pure mountain dulcimer band. She finally settled on the catchy name "Strung-Out" for the new band, an appropriate name since the mountain dulcimer is "strung" with four strings. Eventually a guitar was added and a little later a hammered dulcimer.

Since those first beginnings, personnel have changed in both numbers and people. The group evolved into the octet it is today because of musical balance and the space constraints at many venues played. It takes about six mountain dulcimers to balance the volume of the hammered dulcimer and guitar. Today only one of the active members is a charter member of the original group Polly formed. With minor exception, the members of today's band have been together a few years. The group boasts a repertoire of over seventy-five Old Time Songs.

We like each other, we like the music, and we like the audiences we play for.

The Strung-Out Dulcimer Band is based in the heartland of Pennsylvania's pristine Juniata County in Mifflintown, the County Seat. The County is so rural that it boasts only four red lights within its borders. This is the Ridge and Valley Section of PA with its long mountains and narrow valleys. It is the perfect rustic setting for the performance and preservation of old time, tuneful music.

The Strung-Out Dulcimer Band is an instrumental group. It is made up of six Mountain Dulcimers and one Hammered Dulcimer accompanied by one guitar. Other instruments that are occasionally blended in include the harmonica, autoharp, metallophone, melodica, and plucked psaltery.

The group specializes in old time country songs, old time hymns, and Christmas Carols. Most all of this music is with a bluegrass flavor. The band regularly performs for church activities, granges, nursing homes, reunions, coffee houses, civic clubs, community events, etc. Besides performing, members also acquaint their audiences with their various instruments. After performances people are invited to come on stage and mingle with the Band members and see the instruments up close while the Band packs up.

Everything about the Band is steeped in enjoyment. NO FEE IS CHARGED for performances. All Band members are retired; all are grandparents, and all are in this band to have fun! Now, get to know them:

Sing all. If it is a cross to you, take it up and you will find a blessing.
Sing lustily and with good courage. Beware of singing as if you are half dead or half asleep.
